Parenting Tip:

Recommended---no more than 7 hours per week of "screen time" for children...or less!!!

In today's information-based economy, reading is both an essential skill and a simple pleasure. Yet many children are growing up hooked on TW, with poor reading skills and little interest in books. Too much TV time harms reading in following ways we can fight back: Time\The written words\reading for pleasure\Brain Development.

Action: Make it easy for your kids to read by making books available to them, and encouraging them to use the public library. Keep as many appropriate books around the house as possible. Also, consider living without TV. It is especially important for young children to have the opportunity to absorb real life experiences, so that they can develop the skills they will need for success farther down the line.
